The British Are Coming...

with apologies to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow
Read and look my fellow CAP volunteers,
And you will hear of the aerial exploits
Of 16 RAF Air Cadets on the 6th of April
In the year of 11, on the sod and tarmac
And the skies above Lakeland.
To the airplanes they marched
As one on land,
With two in the air
To the heavens they soared
With Sweeney, Zedonek, and McConnell.
In the red, white, and blue CAP aircraft they roared
Over the lakes and homes of a county called Polk
In a country far away from an Island home called England.
When at last the boots of these future leaders
Did touch the now familiar soil,
Each emerged from the winged machine
With a new perspective of the colonies
....and with breakfast still intact.
